students with the unique opportunity to hear their classmates' reactions to their poetry, fiction, and nonfiction, in a supportive setting, and to develop students' critical skills regarding others' writing. Workshop is an immeasurably valuable process, sparking new ideas, energizing writing, and opening up new perspectives so students become more thoughtful writers and critics. The afternoons are spent in independent writing sessions guided by prompts. These prompts might find students responding to a documentary or film, exploring WashU's campus, or traveling off-campus on a field trip. Writing prompts are designed for students to focus on a specific writing skill. At the conclusion of the program, students will submit a final piece of writing that demonstrates their development as a writer over the course of the program. Pieces are presented on the final day of the program and published in our online literary journal. June 28 – July 11, 2020.
